When to Consider Other Options

- Can't leave messages; voice mail full or phone disconnected.
- Debtor doesn't return left messages and you've left many.
- Debtor says he isn't going to pay you or won't negotiate a payment plan.
- You've exhausted your internal resources; continuing duplicate efforts would be fruitless.
- It's becoming personal between you and the debtor.
- Your focus needs to be on new and paying customers.
- Your credit policy provides that accounts are written off and sent to an agency by a specific date (generally 60-90 days past due).
